VITAL WATER

01 The principle

When we first saw the water crystal pictures by Japanese scientist Masuru Emoto years ago, we were very impressed. We at LivingDesigns were particularly fascinated by the positive change in water structures that results from the conscious design of shapes. Since then, we have been fascinated by water and form.

Research and the search for the perfect design led us to the "golden ratio" and its perfect shape, as well as to the powerful symbol of the flower of life.

Today and in the future, LivingDesigns stands for beautifully shaped, natural and useful quality products for everyday use - for the well-being of body, mind and soul.

02 The products

Our products are based exclusively on natural raw materials such as quartz sand, lime, quartz, kaolin, feldspar, clay, cork and rubber. We use these natural raw materials to manufacture our products from glass, porcelain, wood, etc.

LivingDesigns is careful to ensure that all products and new product developments are manufactured ecologically from these natural and sustainable raw materials so that they are as far as possible 100% endlessly recyclable (glass, ceramics) or can be broken down naturally through composting (wood, cork, rubber).

The majority of our products are made in Europe with respect for the old art of glassmaking.

03 Symbols

These powerful symbols can be found in many cultures, religions and also in our products. In their simple beauty and perfection, they are symbols of the perpetual process of creation and help to reorganize the structures of water in a new and harmonious way.

The Flower of Life consists of several overlapping circles. The starting point is the circle in the center. This reflects a basic geometric structure that shows that all life originally comes from one source - the key word here is cell division. Cell division continues until every living being has achieved its own harmonious form. Incorporated into the products, the water is reminded of this original code by the flower of life. The water arranges itself symmetrically again, as it corresponds to its basic structure, the hexagon. It is precisely this basic hexagonal shape that is found in the Flower of Life!

Flower of life

You can intuitively choose the right flower of life for yourself - the one you feel most attracted to. But perhaps the following information will help you.

Fleur de vie : 1 - Or (24-carats), 2 - Happy (couleurs), 3 - Blanche/gravure laser, 4 - Platine,
Arbre de vie : 5 - Or (24-carats), 6 - Blanc/gravure laser

Gold (24-carat Gold)

This variant with real gold is the most popular worldwide. Gold has long been known for its energy. This flower therefore enriches the revitalized water with life energy.

Happy

Looking at a rainbow makes us happy. The colors of the rainbow have a positive effect on us, as each vibrates at its own frequency. This flower therefore enriches the water with optimism.

White/Laser engraving

White is known for its purity. It is associated with goodness, honesty, beginnings, innocence and perfection. This flower helps you to expand your perception and gives you the feeling of being more open to new possibilities and suggestions. In the laser-engraved version, the flower of life appears crystalline, like tiny crystals. This gives the symbol a more noble character. The laser-cut version is the only symbol that is dishwasher-safe.

Platinum

There is only 0.005 pp of platinum in the earth's crust. As it is an extremely rare metal on our planet, the people who possess it should be very proud of it. That is why this flower is good for strengthening self-confidence and love for ourselves.

Tree of life

The tree of life is an ancient symbol and motif in many regions and cultures. As its roots reach deep into the earth, it is a link between heaven and earth. It symbolizes the general growth process of life. The tree gives us humans orientation, motivation, strength and support.

04 Water

Anyone who has ever drunk water from a mountain stream on a hike will know the benefits of fresh spring water from their own experience. But it doesn't come out of the tap at home as tasty and invigorating. No wonder, when you consider the long distances, treatment procedures and environmental impact that the cool water has now undergone.

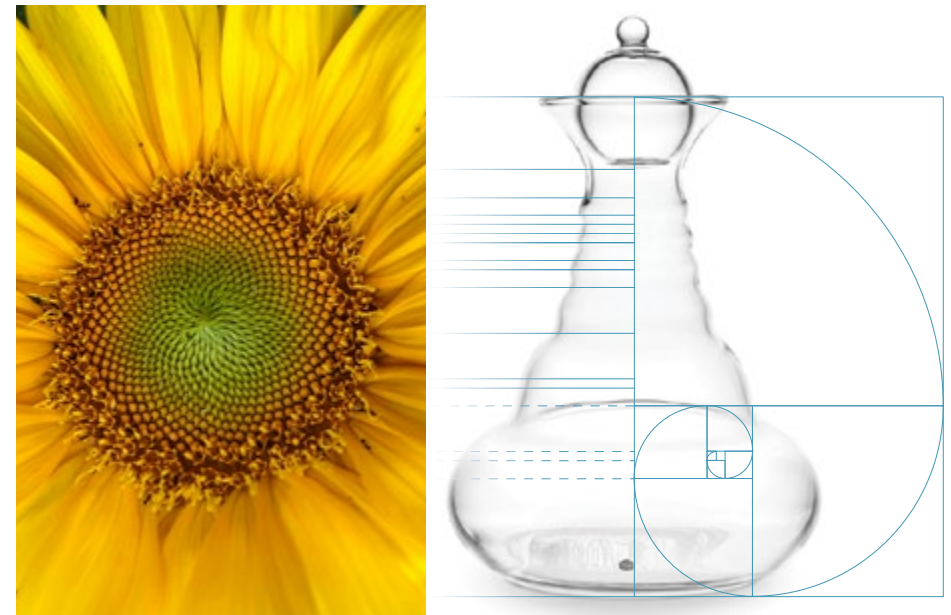

Before and after photos were taken of some water samples visibly document how the product components change the structure of the tap water in the long term.

All samples show extremely positive changes with very fine, symmetrical crystal structures. These changes, caused and supported by the design components (golden ratio, flower of life and carefully selected materials), give the water a fresh, pleasant, unadulterated natural taste.

The test results come from the laboratory E.F. Braun CH-3628 Uttigen, Switzerland and from the laboratory Watercrystal.eu South Tyrol. Water crystals photographed according to the method developed by M. Emoto.

05 The golden ratio

Since ancient times, proportions based on the golden ratio have been considered the epitome of beauty and aesthetics. Even today, this perfect balance can still be found in art, architecture and design, etc.

The golden ratio is the division ratio of a distance or other size in which the ratio of the whole to its larger part corresponds to the ratio of the larger to the smaller part.<sup>1</sup> The formula for this size ratio is the number Phi 1.618, which is known from mathematics. In mathematics, the large Phi denotes the irrational numerical value of the golden ratio. All glass and porcelain products are carefully designed according to these standards. Each piece is therefore unique.

06 The Fibonacci number sequence

The Fibonacci number sequence is based on the same principle as the golden ratio. It describes the characteristics of growth processes that can be found, for example, in flowers and leaves in nature. This occurs, for example, in left- and right-turning spirals with a ratio of 8 to 13 or 21 to 34 (all numbers in the Fibonacci sequence). If you divide these numbers by each other, the result is always 1.618, known as "Phi" or the golden ratio.

Each individual seed in the flower head of a sunflower belongs to a left-turning and a right-turning spiral.

It is noteworthy that the number of spirals are, without exception, only neighboring numbers from the Fibonacci number sequence. In sunflowers you will always find spiral combinations of 21/34, 34/55, 55/89 and especially in large sunflowers also 89/144 kernels. This principle also applies to daisies, pine nuts, cabbage, pineapples, etc.

$$1+1=2, 1+2=3, 2+3=5, 3+5=8, 5+8=13, 8+13=21, \\ 21+34=55, 34+55=89, 55+89=144, \dots$$

Fibonacci sequence

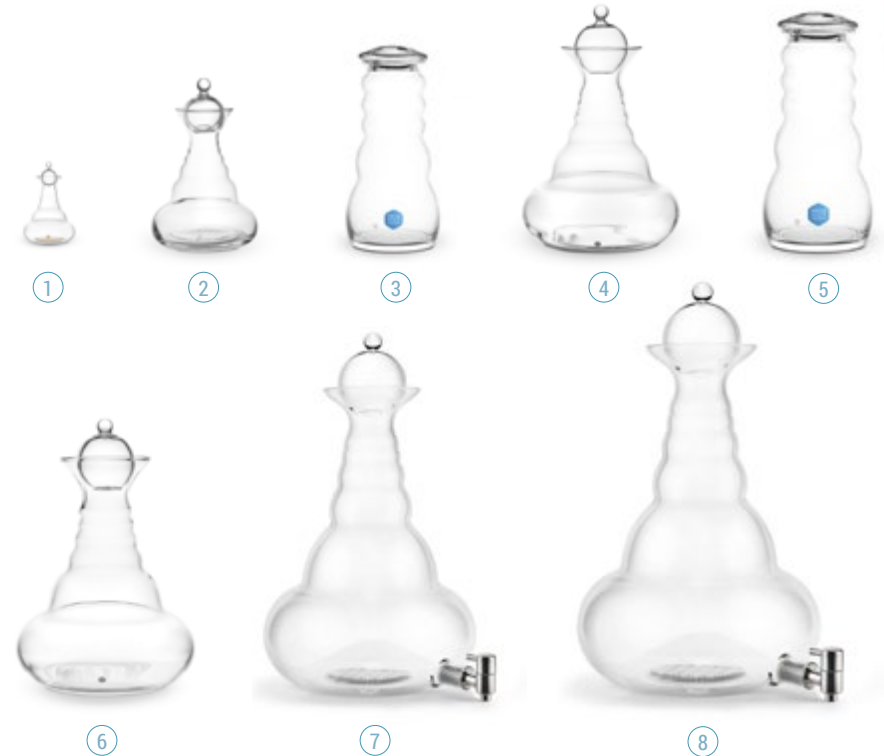

$$34:21=1,62, 55:34=1,62, 89+55=1,62$$

The ratio between two consecutive numbers in the Fibonacci sequence is always 1.62, which corresponds to the golden ratio.

The Calamus drinking straw produces a vital drink. The vortex is a natural phenomenon and the basis for the design of the drinking straw. Inside the drinking straw are spiral-shaped incisions through which the liquid flowing through swirls strongly. As can be observed in nature (tornadoes, waves, wild rivers), the vortex increases the energy level. For easier cleaning, we recommend the drinking straw brush from our range. # DRINKING BOTTLES

Our drinking bottles are made from 95% natural and recyclable materials such as glass, cork, beech wood and rubber for the rubber bands.

From June 2025, the inner screw cap of the Lagoena bottle will be made of polypropylene (PP). The material polypropylene (PP) does not require any plasticizers during production and is therefore BPA-free. Unfortunately, due to the moisture in the drinking bottle, our bioplastic lids quickly became porous and had to be replaced very often. This also led to waste. That's why we opted for this compromise solution.

Cork and Pure drinking bottles (with large opening)

As the needs are different, we have developed two other types of bottles with a wide opening. The bottles with a cork sleeve belong to the Cork line. For those who do not need a protective cork sleeve, the Pure line is the right choice.

WiV Denkaqua compact module

The 3Quellen® principle is based on the combination of three natural methods:

1. Vortex

The image of a mountain stream with its tumbling whirlpools illustrates the basic principle of "moving water" in nature. The patented 3Quellen device uses this principle to create tiny flow vortices, so-called vortexes, by means of the built-in ceramic shaped stones. The result: drinking water is dynamized and activated!

2. Change in charge

When water flows over glass or rock, more happens chemically than previously assumed. For example, water changes its charge properties on contact with silicate surfaces. This is why the ceramic molded stone (internal cascade) is made of CeraAktiv ceramic. CeraAktiv® consists of special water-insoluble silicate minerals such as crystals, quartz and feldspars. Result: The charge properties of the water change!

3. Surface maximization

The ceramic molded bricks (internal cascade) are manufactured with the patented Porosium surface. So that it is possible to produce up to 100 m<sup>2</sup> of surface area on one gram of ceramic. This achieves the smallest structures and maximizes the effective surface area. Result: turbulence and the contact effect of the water are optimized.
